

University of Montana

ScholarWorks at University of Montana

University of Montana News Releases, 1928,
1956-present

University Relations

3-9-1973

First CAS faculty journal published at UM

University of Montana–Missoula. Office of University Relations

Follow this and additional works at: <https://scholarworks.umt.edu/newsreleases>

Let us know how access to this document benefits you.

Recommended Citation

University of Montana–Missoula. Office of University Relations, "First CAS faculty journal published at UM" (1973). University of Montana News Releases, 1928, 1956-present. 26343.
<https://scholarworks.umt.edu/newsreleases/26343>

This News Article is brought to you for free and open access by the University Relations at ScholarWorks at University of Montana. It has been accepted for inclusion in University of Montana News Releases, 1928, 1956-present by an authorized administrator of ScholarWorks at University of Montana. For more information, please contact scholarworks@mso.umt.edu.

IMMEDIATELY

winslow/ras/st
3/9/73
state + cs +FIRST CAS FACULTY JOURNAL
PUBLISHED AT UMI

MISSOULA--

The first University of Montana College of Arts and Sciences (CAS) Faculty Journal, "This Issue," was recently published by the College under the aegis of Richard A. Solberg, Dean of the College. The theme of the first edition is "The Liberal Arts College: Problems and Prospects."

The journal is designed to provide a forum for the expression of ideas about community and of personal views and experiences in the context of liberal education, Solberg said in the first issue's preface.

Each issue will focus principally on at least one major theme. In addition, matters of particular relevance to the aims, goals and appeal of the College of Arts and Sciences within the total context of the University will be included, Solberg added.

"The Journal is one of the finest collective intellectual and academic efforts to come from this University in recent years," Solberg commented.

Professor Lane C. McGaughy, acting chairman of the Religious Studies Department at UMI, wrote the editorial comment for the first edition of the journal. McGaughy stated that the journal is offered to the UMI faculty as one forum for the participation in a decision-making process in which judgments are based on thorough consideration of the issues.

McGaughy is chairman of the Journal's Editorial Board. Board members include Walter E. Hill, assistant professor of Chemistry; Richard P. Sheridan, assistant professor of Botany, and Maxine Van de Wetering, assistant professor of History and Humanities.

McGaughy said that the editors of the journal stand ready to print constructive contributions and critical responses to any issue of importance to the College of Arts and Sciences.

more

Articles in the first edition include:

"The Liberal Arts College," John E. Van de Wetering, chairman and professor of History at UI; "Three Problem Areas in the College," Edmund Freeman, professor emeritus of English; "Jesus and Kafka," Robert W. Funk, professor of Religious Studies; "Thoughts on the Liberal Arts," William G. Craig, former Academic Vice-President at UI.

"The Goals Council: An Evaluation After Twenty Months," James W. Cox, associate professor of Chemistry/Education; "Defense of Pluralism," Richard G. Landini, Academic Vice-President and professor of English; "Some Educational Implications of Technology," by Robert P. Banaugh, chairman and professor of Computer Science; and "Reflections on Round River," Richard A. Chapman, assistant professor of Political Science, and Ronald E. Erickson, professor of Chemistry.

The CAS Faculty Journal is distributed free of charge to faculty members of the UI College of Arts and Sciences. Cost to others is $1.00 per copy.

###